THE ONLY M'NICHOL Is a Trump and a Mascotte I had longed to have a cottage
Like a wildwood nest, you see;
But for just a mess of pottage
Hope had slipped away from me,
When I called to tell my Jenny
That we two could never wed;
Isaid: "Cash I hav nt any,
And my heart weighs down like lead."

And my heart weighs down like lead."
"Jack." she answered some what drily,
"You must learn to harvest late;
You should have a partner"—slipty—
"Tisn't like a man to wait."
"But dear girl, it isn't funny,
I have led a reckless life.
And I hawn't any money
Now to keen a pretty wife."
"You are like all men, "said Jenny,
"At the first blow frightened quick;
You must learn without a penny
Unto solid aims to stick.
Turn your wages over, Jack. dear,
Unto one who'll try and seek.
How to get the value back, dear,
And a fortune week by week."
Even then a bouse and ratment

Even then a house and raiment And a wife seemed burdens great, For I hadn't tried the payment Of instalments on Mac's slate. Beds, chairs, tables, curtains, dishes Came like magic, till I scan, Such a home, filled all my wishes, By this great instalment plan.

The attempt to reproduce it is dropped, although it became worse as Jake went on. He continued taiking about his training. "I did not get home until about June I, and then there was a death in my family—my mother died—and I could not train until some time later. Even the last week I was training it was raining all the time, so I could not do me work as I ought to. He was too strong for me in the fight and the sun did not seem to affect him as it did me. I am not sore anywhere except across the back of my shoulders here where the sun blistered me. You can see I have no ribs broken. Here is where he was punching me all the time and I couldn't do this if I was sore there (and Kilrain punched himself with the ends of his fingers on his left side). I could have fought longer and was willing to, but Donovan threw up the sponge. I was at the scratch at the time. After the first few rounds my blows lacked force somehow and I could not affect him any. That was a contemptible thing to atart that story that I was drugged. I never made any such statement to anybody and there is no truth in it. I never dropped to avoid punishment, but was a trevert at the Mitchell says that. Now, I didn't notice any difference between the third and any other round, and several times after that I thought I would win. Of course I suppose Sullivan's blows had some effect on me, but they wouldn't allow it. Sullivan whipped me, however, but I intend to have another go at him if I can."

"The loss of this battle was a severe blow another go at him if I can."

"Oh, I know I can."

"The loss of this battle was a severe blow to you, was it not?"

"It was for I not only lost the fight, but a fortune as well. If I had won I could have made a fortune and not have to fight any more. Now I will have to fight again. I think I am entitled to another go at Sullivan in preference to any of these other fellows."

"Is it true that you were suffering from a private aliment as charged?"

"No, It is not true. It is a lie, and it is not true that I claimed to be drugged. Sullivan whipped me and that is all there is to it, but I still think, and in fact know I can whip him."

remarked that he had challenged Sullivan before and after the Kiirain battle to fight Mitchell and was willing to back his son-inlaw against him for any amount.
LITTLE JOHNNY MURPHY was certain that it was the sun which had knocked out Kiirain and not Sullivan's blows.
"Why, look at my head," he remarked. "The JACKSON, Miss., July 11.-An act of 1882 im a penalty not exceeding $1,000 nor less poses a penalty not exceeding than $500 and imprisonment for twelve months, or both, for prize fighting. A party months, causing death is guilty of murder. If may-hem, the penalties are provided for. Alders and abettors are subject to a fine of not less than $100, or jail for six months or both.

Charley Mitchell has been very generally denounced for his desertion of Kirain, as he had been the one man of all others who had backed him up by word and deed during all of the preparations made for the preparations made for the ght. His explanation or defense made to a Post-Disparch reporter in an interview above is entirely satisfactory and will acquit him in the eyes of the sporting fraternity of any lack of support in his connection with the defeated puglist. His statement is that it was not the fact that the colors of his man were trailing in the dust that made him take the action which gave the basis for the charge, but that he wanted to get that man out of the reach of the peace officers of Mississippi. In doing so he stood on the teneer of an engine engaged to pull out a crowd of half a dozen Associated Press reporters, and defied the pressmen and train employes to pull the coupling-pin and leave Kilrain and his friends and a number of special newspaper correspondents behind. He accomplished all he wanted, and Kilrain's friends now recognize this. His statement is also corroborated by a highly colored telegram, culogistic of the services of the Associated Press men, sent out from New Orleans. This telegram explains that arrangements were made with the Superintondent of the Queen & Crescent Route for a special train, limited to an engine, tender and one coach, had been the one man of all others who had closed in consultation with the conductor of the train. The door was not permitted to remain open long. One of the party inside closed it with a bang. The newspaper men waited at the door and presently the car conductor, who had gone outside, returned and assured the men that the const was clear. They sampled from the smoking-room and consented to talk to the newspaper men, requesting, however, that their arrival should not be noised about the depot as they feared arrest.

THE PARTY

had not procured tickets on the Obio & Missis sipply road, but the porter said he would purchase them at the first place at which they stopped. WASHINGTON NEWS.

A Silly Story About Special Agent McBride

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11 .- The extensive report of a morning dally in St. Louis, wherein Cornelius McBride, special agent of the Interior Department, is reported to have engendered the ill will of the Adminstration and resigned as a result, is not a statement of facts. No ill will exists on the part of the agent or his superiors. On the other nand he is held in high esteem as a worthy official. He this time does not intend to do so. When he does the act will be prompted by a desire to return to his legal practice. The Post-Dis-PATCH correspondent informed Mr. McBride of the story that had been sent from here to the morning paper mentioned, and he was as much overcome by it as some men are by the heat nowadays. The item places him in a for the defense and Attorney Charles B. somewhat embarrassing situation and Johnson as special counsel for the pros-resignation and remain at least a while longer in this country. It has been snggested to them that this ought to be done in order that America and American interests in Persia may not suffer in consequence of the Minister's refusal to serve longer in a country which he claims has insulted his sovereign. The officials of the department of State say that the Minister has made no complaint to them, and that if he had the best they could do would be to write him a letter disavowing any sympathy or connection with the unpleasant newspaper criticisms of the Shah. Inasmue, however, as the Minister has taken no official cognizance of the matter the department can do no less than ignore it also.

The Cattle Quarantine.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11 .- Some days ago the State officials of New Jersey notified Secretary Rusk of their intention to raise the quarantine against pleuro-pneumonia. To quarantine against pleuro-paeumonia. To this the Secretary to-day made a vigorous protest, appealing to the State officials to aid the Department in protecting the export cattle trade of the country against the ravages of the disease, which is now confined to the territory in, the immediate vicinity of Jersey City. In case the local quarantine is raised, however, the Secretary gives notice that he will at once establish and enforce National regulations to effect the desired end.

Provision Warehouse Burned. CHICAGO, Ill., July 11 .- A fire in the top story of the Anglo-American Provision Co.'s warehouse at an early hour this morning warehouse at an early hour this morning caused a loss of about $40,000 to the firm. The upper stories are used solely for storing prepared hams and lard. The fiames were almost inaccessible to the firmen, and before they could be extinguished it was found necessary to flood the entire floor of the building. The smoke from the "green" hams stored in the room where the fiames started was remarkably dense and stifling and several of the firemen were almost suffocated by the smoke.

A Civil Bervice Conference. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11.-The Pres devoted the greater portion of the morning to a conference with the Civil Service Commisa conference with the Civil Service Commission on the subject of their New York trip, and after they had gone he gave a special andience in the red parior to the newly accredited

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 11 .- The judge's redoore divorce case this morning and dis-nissed the petition which Mrs. Mary J. Moore case has not yet reached this city. The leading Government officials say that his Prof. Thomas Moore, the well known music teacher. Judge Fisher gave his opinion orally and expressed the belief that there was not such great differences as one might believe would exist between the plaintiff and defendant in a divorce case in existence in this case. Moore by his own testimony had shown that he did that the Coline's had not yet considered the matter. He also said that even should he recommend the delivery of Burket to the American authorities, the Governor-General, in his discretionary power, had authority to refuse to sanction a warrant, but that he by his own testimony had shown that he did

EAST END IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Pursuant to adjournment, a meeting was held last svening, at the Mercantile Club, to receive the report of the Committee of Twenty-five, to whom was intrusted the formulation of a plan of permanent organization.

Mr. Richard Ennis presided.

Marcus Bernheimer, from the committee, reported 146 members on the rolls and $1,450 in the treasury, and that the prospects for carrying out the objects of the association were highly encouraging, and that by next meeting it is expected that the roll would include the property-holders and business men of the city generally. The Secretary reported two additional members, Gen. W. L. Smith and F. L. Ridgley, Jr., swelling the membership to 148. On motion, the Secretary, Chas. J. Dunnerman, was instructed to continue his labors to secure membership from jobbing houses, property-owners and business men generally throughout the city.

Dwight Tredway moved that a committee be appointed to select nine members, whose duty its should be to formulate the general purposes of the association. The motion was agreed to and Tredway, Bernheimer, E. S. Rowse and John H. Terry, with the Chairman as an ex-officio member, were appointed. This committee selected the following as the Executive Board: Mr. Bernheimer, Chairman; Giles F. Filley, A. Mansur, Carlos S. Greeley, E. A. Hitchcock, E. O. Stanard, Richard Ennis, H. Daughaday and John S. Moffitt.

The same committee also reported the following effects of the East End Improvement

Henry Hitchcock presented the following resolution, which was adopted:
Resolved, That the executive committee be empowered to employ an engineer and a secretary to assist them in preparing a plan for earrying out the objects of the association, and to incur such other reasonable expense as may be necessary for that purpose. That they be directed to proceed and form an incorporated company for the purpose of establishing such depot and terminal facilities as may be determined upon hereafter, and that they have full power to act on all matters affecting the East End.

Mr. Bernheimer explained that the policy of the association should be to seek the cooperation of the railroads if it was desired to restore values in the East End.
General discussion upon the matter of location for the new City Hall indicated that the association was largely in favor of the present Court-house square for the projected building.

Williamson Bacon, manager of the Tyler state moved that committee he appropriate

Williamson Bacon, manager of the Tyler estate, moved that a committee be appointed to look after the location of the new City Hall. Ile said that the City Hall should not be located in Washington Square, but in the eastern portion of the city. The motion was agreed to and Messrs. Bacon, Henry Hitchcock, E. S. Rowse, James M. Carpenter and E. C. Slevin were appointed the committee.

A vote of thanks was extended the Council for posponing consideration of the bill authorizing the Chiesgo, Burlington & Quincy Railroad to enter the city until some general terminal plan had been agreed upon.

A. H. Smith said that he did not think that it would be good bolicy to delay the bill too long, as the company named had purchassed a large amount of property, and by so doing had enhanced the value of all contiguous property.

that territory.

After adjournment of the regular meeting the Executive Board was called together by Morris Bernheimer, Chairman, and special work was assigned to various members. A meeting of the board will be held on Friday next at 4 p. m. to report progress at C. S. Greeley's office.

Additional subscriptions were received today by Secretary Dunnerman from Helen I. Clemens, Catharine J. Frost. Subscriptions will be received by Mr. Bernheimer, 706 North Second street, Richard Ennis, 118 Olive street, or by addressing a note to the Secretary, Mr. Dunnerman, he will call at subscriber's residence or place of business.

THE ROW OVER QUOTATIONS. Arguments in the Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Ill., July 11 .- Judges Tuley, Col-

There was still but little information on 'Change to-day as to what action the Chicago Change to day as to what action the Chicago Board of Trade proposes to take on the question of sending out quotations. All that could be learned more than was known before was that at their meeting on Tucsday, when the injunction of secrecy was voted, the Board of Directors had passed a resolution deciding to abandon the collection and distribution of quotations as had been done under the old rules and to send out quotations as periods of fifteen minutes and no oftener. The privilege of doing this was what was to be asked of the court, but no decision so far as known has been reached. Fifteen-minutes markets will give very poor satisfaction here.

Mitchell here said: "That story about Jake eling drugged in the third round. It is a lie, for no man who and been drugged could have gone on and fought as he did for rain's bottle-holder, passed through the city this morning. They were due on the Trans train of the Iron Mountain road, which arrives at 6:20 a. m. The train was "abandoned," however, this morning, that is, was consolidated with the Memphis train of the road and hauled into the depot by the latter train, which arrives at 7:30 o'clock. It was pretty generally known that the defeated fighter would get in this morning and there was quite a gathering at the depot to view the result of Sullivan's work. When the train pulled in all the depot hands, express company employes and others about the depot gathered on the platform to gaze at Kilrain. When the car porters were asked where he was they replied the party had got off the train at Ewing avenue and were driven off in a hack. This explanation went with the crowd and they scattered. A Post-Dis-Farron reporter concluded that as the party would want to make connections and go East immediately they could gain nothing by taxing a heak. This explanation went with the crowd and they scattered. A Post-Dis-Farron reporter concluded that as the party would want to make connections and go East immediately they could gain nothing by taxing a head of the cars. The porter in the second discepter visited assured the news gatherers the party was not in his car, remarking: "Why de evy bedy ax me 'bout dat Mr. Kilrain. Dar ain't been no seek man in disheah car." Why de evy bedy ax me 'bout dat Mr. Kilrain. Dar ain't been no s remarked that he had challenged Sullivan be-fore and after the Kiirain battle to fight Mitchell and was willing to back his son-in-law against hir for any amount.

Mitie he was speaking the Post-Dispatch man opened the door of the sieeping-room and Kilrain and his companions were disclosed in consultation with the conductor of the train. The door was not permitted to remain open long. One of the party inside closed it with a bang. The newspaper men waited at the door and presently the car conductor, who had gone outside, returned and assured the men that the coast was clear. They emerged from the smoking-room and consented to taik to the newspaper men, requesting, however, that their arrival should not be noised about the depot as they feared arrest.

Mitchell and Pony Moore walked some distance in front, Klirain, Murphy and the two newspaper men following. Two or three men about the platform neticed kilrain's blackened eyes and swollen lips and immediately guessed his identity. They blowed after him and one platform name range to everybody that kilrain was coming. The pugllist noticed him, and remarked: "Now, look at that — just making it his business to tell everybody I am here."

It was evident that Kilrain was uneasy, for as he and Mitchell expressed ft, they might be arrested at any point on a telegram and held to await the arrival of requisition papers. As he was walking down the platform Kilrain noticed a police officer and remarked in the cockney dialect which he cultivated while in England:

By this time a big crowd was following Kilrain and men and boys were running around on all sides of him and gazing curiously at his discolored face. Finally the party, after a couple of stops and inquiries, found their train and got into the smoking room of the sideper. Some of the railroad men followed them into the car, but the door of the sleeping room was closed on them as soon as the Kilrain party and the newspaper men had entered. Several faces were afterward seen at the windows of the room inside the car, peering in through the lowered curtains. Outside of the car were gathered a curious crowd, who peered in much to the disgust of theparty in general and Pony Moore in particular. The latter, after making the threat: "Hif you don't stop Hi'll 'it some how yez with me cane," finally concluded the casiest way out of the predicament was to lower the curtains and did so. Until the Main Street Station was reached the party remained in the darkness.

Then the train moved out, and getting on a good head of steam the engine stopped for nothing. The engineer's orders were to STOP FOR NOTHING, and he didn't. After crossing the Louisiana line Mississippi troops were discovered ahead on the track, with stacked arms. Apparently there was nothing to do but to pull up. But that wasn't orders, and pulling wide the throttle the engineer let events take care of themselves. The Adjutant-General was there in a side-tracked car, and the soldiers leveled their guns, but Adjutant-General was there in a side-tracked car, and the soldiers leveled their guns, but it made no difference. On sped the train and out of reach of the Mississippi officers Kilrain and Mitchell and their party were pulled as rapidly as possible. Crossing Lake Ponchartrain the train was flagged for the Cincinnati express. Here the tender was uncoupled and the press men were pulled into New Orleans baif an hour ahead of the coaches, the engine having to return for the latter.

ANOTHER INTERESTING POINT

ANOTHER INTERESTING POINT in connection with this, and which is not given in the New Orleans dispatch, was the arrangements, made for the train by A. C. Thomas, representing the Associated Press. He was to pay the Queen and Orescent $1,200 for the engine, tender and one coach. Arriving at New Orleans after all this trauble and having hauled two stra coaches. Mr. Thomas

Tom Kelly, who returned from the fight last night, in discussing it to-day remarked: "Both men were disappointments to me in their fighting. That battle hung in the baltheir fighting. That battle hung in the balance for a long time, and it was not until the close that it became evident which would win. Sullivan appeared to me to be entirely too fat. He weighed twenty-five or thirty pounds more than he should, and Kilrain did not have the appearance of a man in prime condition. It was no such walkover as people generally imagine. When it takes one man over two hours to assert his superiority over another the two are pretty evenly matched, so another the two are pretty evenly matched, and those who declare they were not are merely detracting from Sullivan's merits, for if he was so much Kilrain's superior he should have defeated him long inside of that time."

"But it is said that Kilrain kept dropping to avoid punishment?"

"But it is said that Kilrain kept dropping to eavoid punishment?"

"But it is said that Kilrain kept dropping to enecth him, as at first stated in these dissections." Rilrain had already left on the Ohlo & Mis-sissippi train for Cincinnati. Chief Huebler telegraphed to the Chief of Police of the latter place and Klirain will be arrested on his ar-rival there to-night.

"That is true. He fell constantly to avoid punishment?"

"That is true. He fell constantly to avoid punishment, and if I had been referee I should have either awarded the fight to Suilivan on that account or should have warned Kilrain on that account or should have warned Kilrain that he would have to change his tactics and stand up and fight according to rules or have the fight given against him. Kilrain only dropped once, that I could see, when he was not hit, but he kept failing to avoid punishment under very suspicious circumstances. The rules do not permit a man to go down to save himself unless he is fighting at very close quarters, but Kilrain would drop on a light tap when they were not at close quarters and when it was evident to everybody that he had not been knocked down, but merely fell to avoid punishment. He is not the wan he was puffed up to me to be, and Suilivan is nothing like the man he was when he fought Paddy Ryan. He has not the development at all he then had. Why, if he was the same man as then, he COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—Gov. Foraker received the following telegram to-day:

A Silly Story About Special Agent McBride

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11 .- The exten wherein Cornelius McBride, special agent of engendered the ill will of the Adminstration and resigned as a result, is not a statement of facts. No ill will exists on the part of the agent or his superiors. On the other nand he is held in high esteem as a worthy official. He has not tendered his resignation and at does the act will be prompted by a desire to return to his legal practice. The Post-Dis-PATCH correspondent informed Mr. McBride of the story that had been sent from here to the morning paper mentioned, and he was the heat nowadays. The item places him in a sing situation and resignation and remain at least a while longer in this country. It has been snggested to them that this ought to be done in order that America and American interests in Persia may not suffer in consequence of the Minister's refusal to serve longer in a country which he claims has insuited his sovereign. The officials of the department of State say that the Minister has made no complaint to them, and that if he had the best they could do would be to write him a letter disavowing any sympathy or connection with the unpleasant newspaper criticisms of the Shah. Inasmuce, however, as the Minister has taken no official cognizance of the matter the department can do no less than ignore it also.

REFUSED AN INJUNCTION. solidated Coal Co. Fails in Its School

This morning Judge Klein disposed of the application of the Consolidated Coal Co. and the Consumers' Coal Co. for an injunction against the President and Directors of the Board of Public Schools to restrain the latter from entering into a contract for the coal sup-ply of the schools with Devoy & Feurborn. It was alleged that the Supply Committee of the board had received bids for the coal supply and had let the contract to Devoy & Feurborn, the highest bidders, and the award has attracted such universal attention within the past week as that part on Union avenue gouth of Easton near the Citizens' Cable Line where the extensive sales of property have been made at auction and privately during best grade of coal and the award had been confirmed in a meeting called regularly under the board rules.

LIEUT, BOUGHTON'S CORRECTION.

He Writes That the Verdict of the Court-Martial Was Not Rightly Quoted. Mr. William C. Marshall, who represented Sergt. Weber at his trial, received the following letter this morning from Lieut. D. H.

Boughton, the Judge Advocate of the court: JEFFERSON BARRACKS, Mo., July 18, 1889.

Boughton, the Judge Advocate of the court:

JEFFERSON BARRACKS, Mo., July 18, 1889.

My Dear Mr. Marshall:

From yesterday's Posr-Disparch I see there has been some misinformation in regard to the finding in Sergt. Weber's case.

This finding was:

Of the first charge and its accompanying specification covering disobedience, "guilty."

Alleging disrespect, etc., "not guilty."

The sentence is as stated. Very truly yours, D. H. BOUGHTON.

In speaking of the letter, Mr. Marshall said: "In answer to it I shall say to Lieut. Boughton that the strictures passed on the verdict were based upon the information we received from Washington; and since that was wrong, why, of course, I desire to withdraw what I have said. Still, I think the verdict is peculiar. The court can as evidently disregarded the orders of Leut. Watkins. The specification to the first charge is that he failed to vacate a seat at the dask although ordered to do so three times. The first specification to the second charge is that he failed to vacate the seat at the dask although ordered to do so three times. The first specification to the second charge is that he failed to vacate the seat at the dask although ordered to do so three times. The first specification to the second charge is that he failed to vacate the seat at the dask although ordered to do so. Both specifications refer to the same act, but the latter indirectly admits that Sergt. Weber in his testimony that he did not understand that Lieut. Watkins meant for him to vacate immediately, and Lieut. Sergt. Weber to law a state of by Sergt. All that could be learned more than was known before was that at their meeting on Tuesday, when the injunction of secreey was voted, the Board of Directors had passed a resolution deciding to abandon the collection and distribution of quotations as had been done under the old rules and to send out quotations as periods of fifteen minutes and no oftener. The privilege of doing this was what was to be asked of the court, but no decision so far as known has been reached. Fifteen-minute markets will give very poor satisfaction here.

THE PRESS AND THE MONEY POWER.

The Money Power in politics has provided all of its lackeys and organs in both parties with a new campaign cry. They are saying that the proprietor of the New Yerk WORLD and St. Louis POST-DISPATCH is the richest newspaper man in the United States, and that while he is waging war upon wealth he is doing his best to increase his riches.

If making war upon wealth has won for him the largest newspaper circulation and made him in a very few years the richest newspaper man in the United States, it follows that making war upon wealth must be at once the most popular and profitable thing a newspaper can do. Is it not strange, if this be true, that no other newspaper man has entered a field so remunerative and so open to all cab, has arrived there after a trip of twenty

So many leading newspapers and politicians were out of touch with the people on this subject-so many were dazzled with the "statesmanship" of our rich stating that he will henceforth treat with politicians and corporation magnates on both sides of the fence-so many had bent their knees to the Golden Calf of Corruption in politics and party managefords rather than the people-that not one clear ringing voice on the side of the latter had been heard from press or forum for a long time, and the management of all our public affairs was visibly passing more and more into the hands of prosperous professional season in England. a few millionaires who make a business of

The wonderful success of the first newspaper man who preferred the support of the people to the favor and influence hours, commencing at 8 a.m. to-day, of the plutocrats was gained simply by voicing popular ideas and sentiments upon a matter of pressing moment, a question of vital interest to the country. The popular response only proves that the richest, the most powerful and the most liberal client any newspaper or public man can have in this country is the great mass of common people whose names paper subscription lists.

It will be noted as remarkable that two cities named Johnstown should have been visited by flood disasters within a brief period of time. But there is no room for superstition in the fact. most of the troops and are shown considerable attention by their comrades. They dress in male attire, and appear to stand the hardships well. They are said to be all young girls, and many of them mistresses of the soldiers. The defeat of Hippolyte appears to be out of the question. All of his troops are between the ages of 18 and 25, which leaves a most efficient to to men at home to carry on the supplying of the army. In making up his forces, Hippolyte had decreed that the unmarried men without children, and so on to those having the largest families according to the contingency of the service's demands.

LECTIME'S ACTIVITY.

The keeping of the older men at home is assurance that the boys under 18 will be held in check and made to work by reason of the presence of their seniors. Legitime, on the contrary, has caused a state of great leastivity to prevail by his calling old men and young into the field and allowing women to take arms. It is thought that this policy of itself will defeat him if continued long. Legitime is very active in the defense of Port-au-Prince. He may be seen on aimost any day dashing through the streets followed by a staff of officers fairly covered with gold lace. All of the pray appear to be well mounted and they dash through the streets and out along the road at a fremendous gallop. Preceding Legitime are usually three or four mounted policemen who hastily clear the way. In company with the General are usually the Captain of the Port, the Governor and his staff and the Chief of Police. The cause of those speedy movements is an inspection of the outposts and occasionally a reconnoisance. As each "guard" is passed the troops run out and present arms and the people cry "Vive Legitime! Vive Legitime! Not a grain of powder is expended, though, the article being of too great value to be used in this way. The officer of the Kearsarge were surprised to find Legitime as strong as he is. As far as any great advantage having been gained by either side matters are just the same as they were five months aro, and the American Consul and the white people do not feel the least apprehension of any sudden change. Not a sign of Hippolyte's forces can be seen from the fortiduations around Port-au-Prince, and the foreigners in the latter place do not believe that any of them ever will be seen. Portified as Legitime is, he is too strong to be taken by Hippolyte, and Legitime, it appears, does not dare to advance and risk a battle. The people of Port-au-Prince are all looking to the United States to bring about a compromise, for it seems to be evident that the difficulties cannot be settled by force of arms.

Admiral Ghevardi was in close audience yesterday with the American Consul-General but the subject of discussion was not learned at the moment jof writing. The impression prevalled on the Kearsarge before going to Port-au-Prince that Legitime would not be too glad to see the American Admiral. No sooner, however, had the Kearsarge dropped anchor off the place than word was received from the American Consul stating that Legitime was very desirous of seeing Admiral Gherardi. To-day the Admiral and his Secretary paid an official call upon the Southern General. On their return a National salute was fired by the Kearsarge with the Haytlen fing at the fore. After a short isterval the salute was returned from one of the Haytlen water batteries gun for gun. It is rumored aboard the Kearsarge, as coming from high authority, that arbitration is to be resorted to; that the leaders realize that it is the only means by which the people can be saved from calamity, and that both Hippolyte and Legitime favor it. The United States is the rumored mediator. The most sanguine think that July will see the end of the long struggle. The Kearsarge will remain here for some time and possibly until she is relieved. completion of the East Side Pier—Work on the Center Ones to Be Fushed.

It is expected that the caisson work on the east side pier of the Merchants' Bridge will be completed to day. It should have been finished a couple of days ago, but a number of boulders and hard gravel and sand was struck, and instead of making two feet a day an average of six to eight inches was regarded as yet satisfactory. The water is now falling, and though three feet lower is desired it is expected that the caissons can be launched as yet week and work then commenced on the inside. Speaking of this to-day President Coobs said the center piers would be completed in three or four weeks after the caissons are launched. It is expected that the work will be much easier there than natural causes. In the center it is probable also that they will not have to go below forty feet in depth, and that the bottom will be free from boulders. If this is the case the piers will both be above possible high water by the time the rise comes. In the meantime the work of erecting the super-structure will be pushed. It was expected that the work of the case the piers will both be above possible high water by the time the rise comes. In the meantime the work of erecting the super-structure will be pushed. It was expected that the work has gone slong as far as it has without developing more sickness. The one death that has occurred was due to illness contracted before the victim came here. The absence of more general complaint is believed to be owing entirely to the two large air pumps in use. Generally only one is used, but in the work here two are employed, air-force being used instead of pumps to three woules and water. With this the gravel is thrown a distance of 50 to 100 feet.

The New Government Cruiser Starts on a Private Trial Trip.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 11.—The large steel government cruiser Baltimore, the third con-structed by the Messrs. Cramp, and the most formidable of the new navy, started down the river this morning for a three-days' trial trip at sea, for the purpose of making a thorough test of the improved machinery and the seagoing qualities of the vessel. The present trial is a private one, to detect the defects, if any exist, in the machinery, so that they can be remedied in time for the official test, which will take place in a few weeks, under the su-pervision of naval officers appointed by the Secretary of the Navy.

The trouble grew out of a disagreement over cossession of the barber-shop. Thomas and his former partner, Smith, both claiming the income of the shop. In obtaining the money in the cash drawer Thomas put the cashiar, Mintie Slater, out of the shop, she claiming that in doing so he committed an assault upon her, injuring her ribs by his violence. The case was argued at some length before Justice Spaulding, who found the defendant not guilty and dismissed the case.

that with St. Louis' advantages in receiving the very best grades of wheat, and in being better located as a distributing point than any other milling center, her milling capacity should be not only doubled but trebled. Instead of that it has not increased in the least in recent years, though it should be greater than that of Minneapolls. Then I said that if the elevators consolidated and carried out their plans and the market was relieved of the speculation that has ruined Chicago as a milling point and which has been felt to some extent here, I thought several men interested in milling here would venture into 6,000 barrel capacity milling enterprises. I also said I was so certain of what we could do if the wheat market was regulated by supply and demand instead of speculation that

I WOULD MYSELF CONSIDER

Seriously a plan to erect a new mill of a capacity of 5,000 barrels a day. All that we wanted, I said, was a supply and demand regulator, and until we have that we cannot revive the milling industry. The elevator plans will do a great deal toward this, and I expect to see our hopes realized.

"Where would you erect your new mill, Governor?" was asked.

"On a railroad track some place. I will have track facilities at my present mill within a year, but I do not say that I would erect a new mill there. However, that is an after consideration. If we have to come to what I have stated these matters of location will regulate themselves. We have so many advantages in being in the line of the best wheat, and in having admirable facilities for distributing our product to the trade, that there is no doubt as to what would follow. That is one place where Chicago is weak as a milling point, she does not get the fine milling wheat received here, and could never be a milling point, she does not get the fine milling wheat received here, and could never be a milling boint, she does not get the fine milling wheat received here, and could never be a milling boint, she does not get the fine milling wheat received here, and co

REGULAR SESSION, CLOSING 1:15 P. M.

Wheat—By this morning the trade appeared to have made up their mind the Government report was not a builtsh document. On its returns they could figure out a crop that would leave a large exportable surplus after all the requirements of this country were taken care of. More than that, the threshing returns from winter wheat indicated a larger yield per acre of a heavier wheat in weight than the Government report and early expectations had led anybody to weither as the late howling of the Line was no get-in-and-crop disaster phile there was a real pressure to sell. Excepts at this point were 66,735 bu, exceeding the same day last year by over 22,000 bu, and the stock showed a further increase. Cable advices were discouraging, having lost all their late stiffness, and the weather improving abroad also. Then the aspect of all the outside markets were unfavorable, they dragging gradually downward, and the lower they went the more demoralized they appeared to get. Another depressing feature was the long repeated to get a nother coming out for sale on the Line along part of this being for Chicago account and the large part of this being for Chicago account and the large part of this being for Chicago account and the large part of this being for Chicago account the finishing touches to the airsady badly weakened market, and the close was 182-282 below yesterday. July sold at 75% to to 73% e and August at 75½675% to 73%c. The spot market received another black eye, samples loving as much as 5c, so much did the offerings exceed the demand. No. 3 sold at 71c in special bin and 71½c East track, and No. 2 at 75c k. track, and from 71c to 75c for sacked lots. Graces were deathly sich ferent, No. 2 red ediling at 75c to 75c, and No. 3 red at 71c, but d. The large part of the scarcity and advance in cash grades made the near options stiff and July sold at 52c to 65 c. M. No. 4 was considered to the first part of the scarcity and savance in the acreage different in the sc St. Louis Markets. REGULAR SESSION, CLOSING 1:15 P. M.

The Order Discouraging Attendance on the G. A. R. Encampment Withheld.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 11.—The undecisive character of the order concerning the coming Grand Army encampment issued by Commander-in-Chief Warner at Chamberlain, D. T., last evening, served to further complicate matters here and everything at encampment headquarters is hopelesly adrift. The question of resoluting the city's invitation to the G. A. R. will come up at to-night's meeting of the Encampment Council and a warm time is expected as local G. A. R. men are widely at variance in their opinion as to the proper course to pursue. There is an evident intention to have a blow out of some sort in any event, and if the encampment cannot be had, a grand reunion is proposed at which a naval battle is to be the chief event. The opinion is freely expressed, however, that no more public money ought to be expended. Mayor Brown has not algread the resolution setting aside the $40,000, but he will not veto it. It will become operative to might without his signature. A dispatch from Chicago states that Gen. Martin of the Illinois Department who was chosen to draft the order discouraging attendance at the succession of the Central T. H. Will not veto it. ## A Fair Prospect of an Amicable Settlemen

NEW YORK, July 11.-There is now a fair prospect that the great contest over the millions sought to be disposed of by the will of Mrs. A. T. Stewart will finally be brought oposition in the nature of an ultimatum has lawyers of the proponents of the will are considering the advisability of accepting it, and, it is said, are greatly inclined to do so. The precise terms of the proposed settlement are kept a profound secret and the lawyers say that if it is closed the public will never be made acquainted with them. It is reported, however, that the proposition is that the contestant shall receive $5,000,000 and forever after hold her peace. The details of the negotiations which have been ascertained are few, but there is no doubt about the facts, so far as they have come to light. Ex. Surrogate Daniel G. Rollins, one of the leading counsel for the proponents, on Friday announced that he would be compelled to adjourn the reference in the Sanger-French controversy over "Little Lord Fauntieroy" which was going on before him because he was to hold an important conference with Eliun Root and ex-Attorney General Leslie W. Russell that afternoon. These lawyers are associated with him as counsel of the proponents of the will. It was afterward learned that this conference related to the will case, and that it was postponed to Tuesday and then to Wednesday. Yesterday the three lawyers held a long private consultation at the office of Mr. Rollins, in the Mutual Life insurance building. Mr. Rollins, after it was over, said to a reporter that a final proposition made by the counsel for the contestant had been considered and would be stjil further considered.

"We have had a very hard tussle over it,"

He said that a further conference would soon be held. More than this he was not inclined to say, nor could any information be obtained from his associates or from the lawyers on the Trouble Over the Reported Lynching of Negro at Macen, Ga. By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

Macon, Ga., July 11 .- For several hours last night this city was in expectation of a bloody race conflict. Willie Smith (colored), 18 years of age, was found by two white men resting in the house of one Ida Smith, a white woman. of the window, where he fell unconscious. He was then beaten terribly. A report spread among the negroes that the whites had taken 8mith off to lynch him. This aroused them to a fury and a white man was seized by the black mob and drarged towards the swamp with cries of "Lynch him." Mayor Price, at the head of a squad of men, went in none direction, while Chief Kenan, at the head of a smaller force, went in another to suppress the trouble. Mayor Brice's squad arrested thirty of the negroes as they were returning from the swamp. The police formed in a hollow square around them and marched them to fail. The whites were under the impression that the negroes had lynched the white man while the negroes believed that Will Smith had been lynched by the whites. The Mayor's skill in handling the crowds kept them spart until it was discovered that neither party had been lynched, when the mob quietly dispersed. He was then beaten terribly. A report spread

Last of the Athletics.

The celebrated Philadelphia sluggers, who are going up the championship hill at the 'game-of-their-lives' gait, will pay their farewell respects to the Browns to morrow, and the ceremonies attending their departure will be of a thoroughly interesting character. The Athletics are making a bold dash for that championship flag this year, and judging from the way they are impressing that fact upon the Browns and their army of admirers, they will give all the other aspirants a mighty hard slege of it. The Browns feel that they have a heavy load on their shoulders bucking the Athletics, and their last game of the present series will be another red-hot fight. Weyhing, who pitched such a great game against the Browns yesterday, will probably pitch again to-morrow, Chamberlain officiating for the Browns. Play will be called at 4 p. m. farewell respects to the Browns to-morrow

The Sad Note Left by Peter Houser Before He Took His Life.

"I would like to live if I had money," was the last message left by Peter Houser as he hung himself in his room at 2206 Morgan death. The suspended body was found at about 70'clock this morning and now lies at the Morgue to be buried at the city's expense. The case is a sad one. A note written in German and explanatory of the cause of self-destruction was left behind. Freely translated destruction was left behind. Freely translated it reads:

FRIENDS AND ACQUAINTANCES—If I have any—I am going to die. I am 77 years and 6 months on this earth and came from Baden, Germany. I have no money, no friends, no work and am sick. Six times have I gone to the—Hospital, but they would not have me. They pretend to be Christians, but they are no good. If there is a heaven I think I shall go there. God forgive me torthis act. I hope the City of St. Louis will give me a decent burial. Good-bye.

That was all, and yet it told a pitiful tale. Houser was a German upholsterer, 77 years of age, and had lived near the place of his death for almost 40 years. He was an industrious workman, but his enfeebled condition at last precluded all possibility of severe labor, and he was soon dependent upon charity. He had no relatives in St. Louis, and seemed to carry on no correspondence with his friends across the sea. Once he went to the poor-house, but his sensitive nature revolted at the surroundings and in two days he returned to his old quarters at Mrs. Ann Artz's boarding-house, 2206 Morgan street. This kind hearted lady pitied the old man in his distress and gave him a rear room on the third floor, furnishing him with food and lodging without recompense. Dally he grew weaker and weaker, yet insisted that it was for rack of medical treatment that he was ill. Several weeks ago he told his benefactress, Mrs. Artz, that he could no longer endure the mental and physical torture, and hinted at suicide. Several weeks ago he told his benefactress, Mrs. Artz, that he could no longer endure the mental and physical torture, and hinted at suicide. The woman did all in her power to dissuade him from his purpose and be finally consented to abandon his resolution. A few days ago he went to g butcher shop and obtained a heavy meat hook. This he carried to his room and, securing a hammer from Mrs. Artz, drove the hook into the casement over his door. When questioned as to his purpose in so doing he said he wanted a piace to hang his clothing. His intentions are now evident. After a sleepless night of pain he rose from his bed, dressed himself as if for a festival, fastened a rope to the hook, and, mounting a chair, placed the noose around his neck. A convulsive movement kicked the support from beneath his feet, and as the rising sun crept into the recesses of his humble abode the weary traveler started on his long journey in search of rest. Coroner Frank held an inquest at 11 o'clock and a verdict of death by hanging with suidcidal intent was returned. The city will bury the remains.

"I've just been put in possession of facts that justify me in revoking the warrant issued from this office on June 29, upon your requisition for Thomas McFarland and S. P. Condon, until I can more fully ascertain whether or not they should be surrendered. I, therefore, respectfully ask that its execution be suspended and that you notify your agent, George W. Wilson. When I have had the matter fully stated to me I will acquaint your excellency with the facts and my conclusion."

To this letter Gov. Gordon replied:
"I beg respectfully to submit that the jurisdiction of the executive of Georgia does not extend into Tennessee and that I have no authority, and certainly no inclination, to suspend the execution of an executive warrant issued by your excellency. In your letter you further say that when you have had the matter fully stated to you, you will acquaint me with the facts and your conclusions. As to the facts, I would inform your excellency that the fugitive from justice. Condon, has been arrested and carried to Morgantown, where, before the Superior Court of Fannin County last week, he pleaded guilty and was sentenced before our letter of the 6th inst. was written."

Thus it will be seen that the Georgia crimi-Thus it will be seen that the Georgia criminal whose case Gov. Taylor desires to overlook has become an inmate of the Georgia penitentiary. There is some curiosity to know what steps Gov. Taylor will take to get him out.

waukee as nad been given to Columbus and St. Louis. This was satisfactory to a majority of delegates in the encampment and they yoted for Milwaukee.

Lastajanuary the task was undertaken of securing from the various traffic associations concessions in the matter of rates. The best that could be done then was one and one-third fare. This was far from satisfactory and the Grand Army howled indignarity when it heard of the railroads' niggardly concession. The Milwaukee people howled too, and another attack was made upon the association.

THE CENTRAL TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION was induced to reduce the rate to one fare and the other associations followed. This satisfied no one, the cry being "A cent a mile or no encampment."

was induced to reduce the rac to one and the other associations followed. This satisfied no one, the cry being "A cent a mile or no encampment."

Up to this time the hotels of Milwaukee had been astride of high horses also. In the last week of May the Executive Council of the G. Ar. R. met in Milwaukee to make arrangements for the encampment. Up to that time the hotels had refused to make contracts for rooms for delegates and applicants were told that the hotels would ail be full at that time of people returning from the watering places. The hotel men said they did not need the G. Ar. R. business at that season and would not make rates or contracts. The Excutive Council considered seriously the removal of the encampment to another city but the hotel men came to terms and it was then thought the railroads would do better than they had done.

There was to be a meeting of the Central Traffic Association at Chicago July 2, and the Milwaukee men thought that if the Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R., Wm. Warner, would write to the members of the association that something might be done to further reduce the encampment rate. Mr. Warner did write, and a call was lessed for a meeting of department commanders representing Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Nebraska, Minnesota and Missouri drew up and published a card denouncing the railroads and urging G. cipal in previous encampments.

The reason for this lies in the refusal of the railroads to make a rate low enough to satisfy the Grand Army. When the encampment was held in St. Louis in 1887 the railroads gave rates from one fare for the round trip down to half a cent a mile. The business was in consequence enormous, and the CROWDS ATTRACTED TO ST. LOUIS extraordinary. Last year a rate was made to Columbus of 1 cent per mile, but a 55 rate was given from St. Louis to Columbus, which amounted to a little over one-haif a cent a mile. A call was made at the wharfboat of the Vicksburg Anchor Line, where Secretary Theodore O. Ziegler was in charge.

THE CAUSE UNKNOWN.

"We know nothing beyond the fact that the boat is sunk," said Mr. Ziegler, "as we have received no news except that contained in the telegram. The Sailne River, where the wreck received no news except that contained in the telegram. The Saline River, where the wreck occurred, is about seventy miles down the river and on the Missouri side. We know that the boat is lying there in 6½ feet of water, and that is all that we do know. rived, and until he reaches the city we will not be made acquainted with the particulars."

NO LIVES LOST.

"Do you think that the boat will prove a total loss?"

"I can answer that in the pegative at once."

Trade.

"I can answer that in the negative at once and also say that no lives were lost. As the dispatch says, the boat sank in six and a haif teet of water. This would scarcely reach to her lower deck and the damage cannot be se apparatus to the wreck. An exami-nation will be made and a boat will go down to-day to pump the vessel out. Her freight consisted of wheat, corn, garden produce and live stock, and none of this can be in any way injured, as there is nothing stowed in the hold, and the lower deck is above water. Two boats are at the Saline River now, the City of Vicks, burg and the City of New Orleans. They will take off the freight and passengers and bring them to this city. We will then pump her out and tow her to this city. She will probably arrive within three or four days, and will soon be on the line again.

"The Crystal City is one of our new boats, having been completed in March, 1888. She was built for the St. Louis and Grand Tower trade, and was finely fitted up. She is 240 feet long, provided with fine engines of the best models, built of the best materials in every respect, and has excellent cabin accommodations for a large number of passengers. She is not insured, as the boats of our line carry no insurance, the company preferring to insure itself. The loss cannot be estimated until we know its extent, but I can say now that it does not amount to much."

oan say now that it does not amount to much."

An employe of the company, when asked his opinion, said: "Without knowing anything definite about the matter, I am inclined to think that the Crystal City must have struck a snag. If there had been either an explosion or a collision on the telegram would have so tasted it and the snag hypothesis is almost the only one remaining. There are a number of anaga in the vicinity of the Sailus River and the probabilities are that one of them ripped a hole in the bottom of the boat. Capt. Molen is an old and experienced riverman and you may be sure that all that could be done has been attended to in the Dest manner."

LATER INFORMATION.

All o'clock this afternoon the clerk of the Crystal City arrived and stated that the boat had been wrecked by striking a snag. It was a manual dately run into shoal water, where it junk, resting on a sandbar. The eargo was condamaged at all and the injury to the boat can be readily repaired.
